Hello! As I said my name is Bohdan. I've started my way in web development about a year ago, before I worked as a SEO specialist. Thanks to my previous work experience I had a chance to work with a huge variety of people both designers and developers and understand what I like most. I also have experience in HTML and CSS.

Passing two web development courses by Ivan Petrychenko allowed me to feel more confident in what I was doing and gave me a clear understanding of what is important for me as a web developer.

I actively take care of my GitHub profile and try to add as many projects and technologies that I find interesting as possible. My main goal is not just become a successful React developer, my main goal is to create user oriented and useful web applications that will bring value to both the business and the user. Hope to work with you soon.
